Jacksonville has had no such virulent attack before since 1822, and knowledge of the disease has hardly increased during these sixty-five years. It is distinctly a disease of dirty places. President Duncan's reply to the Mayor will be incorporated in the pamphlet.

Exper' S. S. Wheeler, of the Board of Electrical Control, of this city, read an essay on "Overhead and Underground Wires in New York," illustrated by chalk drawings on a blackboard.

He gave a detailed account of the advancement of electrical work in New York and the steps which led up to the enactment in 1884 of a law directing electrical companies to put their conductors underground.

Mr. Wheeler related the story of how the Subway Commission labored and experimented in their efforts to find the best way to perform the work of burying the wires, and stated that more than four hundred methods were submitted to the commission.

The methods in other cities were reviewed and shown to be impracticable for New York, because there are here so many more telegraph and telephone wires than in any other city in America with comparatively much less space for the conduits.

In Paris the wires are run through the large sewers. In London there are practically no are lights, and therefore no circuits. The telephone is not used extensively, and telegraph wires are placed underground by the Government.

cuits. The telephone is not used extensively, and telegraph wires are placed underground by the Government.

The plan here is what is known as the "hand-hole-drawing-in" system, consisting of five-inch cast-iron pipes, laid under the sidewalks and accessible through "hand-holes" or "fiush boxes."

The cables are of gutta percha, like the submarine cables, and the pipe-joints are loose, to admit water for the preservation of the cable.

In Brooklyn there are ten miles of Dovest.

conduit and four and a half miles of conduit consisting of a wooden box made of creosoted boards loosely joined. This conduit acts simply in keeping the cables from contact.

The plan followed in this city was described, and Mr. Wheeler concluded by staining that there are already in the city of New York more electrical conductors than in any other city in the world, while the capacity of the construction already finished in this city may be estimated fairly at over 30,000 miles of conductors.

There are through lines completed from the Battery to Central Park on Broadway and Sixth avenue, and a gradual conversion from an overhead to an underground system in the business parts of the city may be confidently expected. conduit and four and a half miles in the business parts of the city may be confidently expected.

Mr. Wheeler said that since the appointment of the Board of Electrical Control a thorough and careful inspection of the overhead wires by competent men has shown that a great deal of very bad and unnecessarily dangerous work has been done, and that a reprehensible and inexcusable condition of overhead wires is the principal, if not the only, cause of the clamor for underground service.

In addition to this an enormous quantity of wire and poles not in use at all exist, amount-ing to from a half to two-thirds of all the ing to from a half to two-thirds of all the wire and poles in the city.

"There is a vast amount of overhead freebooting. Wires of one company are chopped off by another, wires dangle in the streets and are constantly a menacing danger.

"Obstructions to streets or sidewalks, violations of any other rule of decency are subject to the care of one or other city department, but this wire muisance goes scot free, except as the electrical control can class it and report it to a proper Board."

A general discussion followed, and Mr. Lynch, of the United States Illuminating Company, a little heated, declared that the Board of Electrical Control wanted the electric lighting companies to adopt a patented Board of Elication and the Elication of Pittsburg, read a paper E. G. Acheson, of Pittsburg, read a paper

IS WAR FEARED IN EUROPE?

NEW YORK, THURSDAY, AUGUST 30, 1888.

General Mobilization Over the Whole Country-What Does It Mean ?

INT CABLE TO THE PRESS NEWS ASSOCIATION, LONDON, Aug. 30 .- A tourist just returned from a trip through the Continent reports the following as the result of his observa-

The martial example of the young German Emperor has caused all the war offices of Europe to take on a feverish activity. More orders are issued, more inspections held, more investigations undertaken than ever

The drilling everywhere is incessant Great bodies of troops march out of fortified cities every morning and spend the day in military exercises in the field.

Never was such hard work done before. To the traveller the Continent has the aspect of a fortified camp. Wherever troops are stationed, and they are everywhere, they are kept in motion from morning until night.

All over France the sound of the bugle is heard; the drill-master is busy instructing recruits; the whole nation is in his hands. Large masses of troops are continually moving from point to point on the frontiers. Changes are made in railways to increase their strategic advantages.

In the interior the troops are being constantly exercised, stores inspected, transportation tested, experiments at mobilization made. It may almost be said that France is mobilized. She is ready for action and will not be taken by surprise again.

The manœuvres now going on in the Re magna have grown out of the military spirit now prevailing throughout Europe. There 50,000 thoroughly equipped and well-drilled troops are going through the movements of an active campaign under the eye of King Humbert, who has formed a regular military establishment at Forli.

There the general staff seriously plot operations oh a large scale, and the army execute them from day to day. Italy has witnessed no such scene since the days of Little Bulgaria, armed to the teeth, has caught the infection, and, under the spirited lead of Prince Ferdmand, is marching her little army to and fro and strengthening her fortifications and frontier posts. Austria, stimulated by Germany, is gradu ally bringing her military forces up to that degree of efficiency which is good in the eyes of her German critics. Her troops are continually on the move. Those on the frontier are relieved by fresh forces from the interior. The Hungarians, with their usual impetuosity, cry for 'action and act as if they were preparing for imme diate war. At the same time from all the Chancellerie of the Continent comes the announcement The peace of Europe will be maintained.

HE STOLE HIS OWN BABY.

THE BIG, BLACK-BEARDED MAN WHOM ALL HOBOKEN CHASED.

James Fields Snatches His Child from Its Mother's Arms, Beats a Crowd in a Foot Ruce and Dashes into a Carriage, which the Crowd Captures-An Unhappy Domestic Story Back of It All.

Mrs. James Field, a comely young matron, sat upon the front steps of the tenementhouse at No. 68 River street, Hobeken, last evening, holding her little four months babe in her arms. It was a hot night, and the mother was given her infant the benefit of the fresh breeze which blew from the North River.

At 9. 15 a stalwart man, with a long black beard, who was passing, suddenly swooped down upon the mother and child and tore the infant forcibly from the mother's arms. He then fled, followed by Mrs. Fields, screaming as she ran. Mr. Brown, Mrs. Field's father, was standing in the doorway when thechild was taken and he, too, gave chase.

The locality is very thickly populated, and the dramatic spectacle of a tall, black-bearded man running along with an infant in his arms and being chased by a shricking woman and a man quickly stracted attention, and in a man, quickly stiracted attention, and in less time than it takes to tell the story a big crowd of people joined in the chase.

The exciting chase was kept up for two blocks, and then there were nearly two thousand people interested in the affair, but the abductor was fleet-footed and distanced his pursuers.

At the corner of Hudson and Secon At the corner of Hudson and Second streets stood a closed coach. The stranger plunged headlong into it with the baby and the driver whipped up his horses and started off on the run. Although this was quickly done the crowd was upon them before they got under full headway and surrounded the coach like a swarm of bees.

The driver did his best to get away and whipped his horses right through the crowd, but men climbed up behind and Mr. Brown sprang at the horses' heads. Other men took hold of the spokes of the wheels, and after struggling for half a block the coach was stopped.

Then the man with the big, black beard jumped out and disappeared before the crowd appreciated what he was about. The baby was in the cab, however, and was quickly restored to the mother's arms.

Mrs. Fields and her father went straight to peared another woman flourishing in her hand a big black beard.

"I've got it!" she said, as she waved it aloft triumphantly. "The scoundrel who tried to steal the baby was its own father, James Fields. He had on this big beard. I saw him when he jumped out of the coach and grabbed him by the beard in order to stop him. The beard came off in my hands and then I recognized him."

The woman laid the trophy upon the Justice's desk. She was Mrs. Fields's sister.

Mr. and Mrs. Fields, who had been married but a shortlime, had since quarrelled and separated. At his solicitation they lived together again, but one night he came home and tried to kill her with a bread knife. Then he went out, but returned again under the influence of liquor and shot at her, but missed her. She then left him and returned to her parents' home. Justice Seymour sympathized with the woman and told her he would detail an officer to keep an eye on her house and see that she was not again molested.

Fields is employed as a bookkeeper in a New York wholesale dry-goods store. He is about thirty-two years of age, and belongs to a very respectable family living somewhere in Bergen County.

Portuguese Women Smuggled In.

IMPECIAL TO THE EVENING WORLD.1 HALIPAX, N. S., Aug. 80. - Nearly two weeks ago the Portuguese brig Neptune, from Payal for Boaton, put into Hallfax estensibly to procure water. She had nearly sixty Portuguese women on board, who were sent on to riosion by rail, and it has just been learned that the brig really put into this port in order to get the females into the United States of a land route and thus evade the American law. They had been engaged in Fayal to enter situations in Boston and vicinity and could not have been landed from the vessel at that port. ## PAT COLLATON'S KILLING.

Johnny Hannan's Wrench Did It and They Want to Hang Blm.

The inquest in the case of Patrick Collaton who died from the effects of being struck by a wrench at 455 West Sixteenth street, was resumed to-day by Coroner Eidman and a jury. The accused John Hannan was present, and the people were represented by Assistant District-Attorney Hoffman. This, Coroner Eidman stated, was due to the fact, that after the last day of the inquest, a number of complaints had been made by friends of Collaton that the matter was being "fixed up."

Mrs. Mary Jones, of 455 West Sixteenth street, testified that on June 21 she saw John Hannan, sr., and John Hannan, jr., quarrel with Collaton, who tried to trip up Young Hannan. Collaton knocked the latter and young Hannan then hit Collaton with the wrench.

The widow Collaton was called and testified that her husband said to her: "I'm going to die, and when I do all you have to say is that I was murdered by Johnny Hannan, and let him be taken and hung to the next tree you meet."

The jury brought in a verdict blaming young Hannan for Collaton's death and he was committed to the Tombs.

FATALLY SHOT HIS GUIDE.

THE EVENT WHICH HAS SPOILED DANIEL O'CONNELL'S SUMMER VACATION.

Bunter, Received the Whole Charge from a Gun Accidentally Discharged-The Doctors Express but the Slightest Hopes of His Recovery from the Wound.

For eleven years it has been the custom of Assistant United States District-Attorney Daniel O'Connel', of this city, to spend three or four weeks of the summer months in vacation, away from the weighty cares of official duty, in the wilds of the Adirondacks. The region which he chose for his hunting and piscatory pleasures was in the northeast corner of Essex County, about Placid Lake, the west branch of the Ausable River, and on the Saranac chain of lakes. Here, under the guidance of John Shey, one of the veteran guides of this wild section, who knew the lurking place of every wild foul and every pool where the voracious trout most abounded. Mr. O'Connell found splendid sport and abundant recreation. One week ago to-day Mr. O'Connell got together his guns, fishing traps and corduroys, and started for the old stamping grounds, after telling his associates what a glorious time he was going to have and estimating the land with the help of his old guide, John Shey.

A week has elapsed the trusty guide is in the throes of probable death and Mr. O'Connell's vacation is spoiled, for from his gun came the shot which will probably cost John Shey was laid low, receiving the entire charge in his body.

The details of the affair have not yet reached this city. It is known, however, that Shey was able to make a statement fully exonerating Mr. O'Connell from blame.

Mr. O'Connell is in the criminal department of the United States District-Attorney's office, and his chief, Mr. Rose, received a telegram from him this morning, in which he stated that he accidentally shot his guide, and added that "the doctors express some hopes of his recovery."

added that "the doctors express some hopes of his recovery."

Mr. Rose said that Mr. O'Connell was a very sensitive man; that he had worked very hard at his official duties and he was fearful that this painful accident would completely break him up. It certainly would render his vacation of no value to him.

Mr. O'Connell is thirty-five years of age, unmarried, and resides at 118 West Sixty-first street. He is a prominent member of the Tammany Society of the Nineteenth Assembly District and a warm friend of Sheriff Grant.

MURDERED BY FOOTPADS. Well-Known Chicago Citizen Attacked

The police are at a loss, and, like some other cases that they have slipped up on, the criminals may go unpunished. The murder took place about 1 o'clock this morning, and the victim is Frederick Schueneman a well-known citizen. He was shot at the corner of Ada and Randolph streets.

It is supposed that Schuneman, who was on his way home, was being robbed and at-tempted to defend himself. His assailants cut one of his pockets open to get his money and took his watch.

They then shot him through the head and dragged the body to an alley, where it was discovered at daylight.

The Aldermen say they will pass the banner resolutions over the Mayor's veto. The Democrats and Republicans will form a banner combine, but it will not be a banner combine in comparison to the Broadway Railroad combine of 1884.

THE COMMISSIONER OF JURORS.

Report on His Office Made by the Commissioners of Accounts The Commissioners of Accounts have sent o Mayor Hewitt a report of their recent examination of the Commissioner of Jurors' office, in which, after a detailed statement of the methods in vogue in the Commissioner of the methods in vogue in the Commissioner of Jurors' office and the law governing the case, they say:

We have discovered nothing in and about the office that indicates any want of integrity in the management of its affairs. If any exist, it must be looked for beyond the records and testimony of those officially connected with it. We have not considered it within the scope of our present examination to go outside and look up testimony. To do this would require more time and means than we have at command, and no prima facie case has been made, in our opinion, to justify it.

The report closes with gundry recomment.
